

Know Your Rights in Colorado

As communities across the country continue to voice valid concerns about ICE, it is crucial that people understand their rights in Colorado and the many ways we can protect ourselves and our immigrant communities.

Every person has constitutional rights, regardless of immigration status. Those rights include:

- You are permitted to film and voice record ICE activity.
- You have the right to remain silent and do not have to answer questions about your immigration status.
- In Boulder County, local law enforcement officers will not ask any questions about one's immigration status and, if it is learned, will not report it to ICE.
- You do not have to open your door unless ICE presents a federal warrant approved by a judge. Civil immigration detainers are not warrants under Colorado law (C.R.S § 13-1-403). To determine if the document is a warrant, look for the word "warrant" and the name and signature of a federal judge.
- If you encounter ICE, you can ask if you are free to leave. If the answer is yes, you may calmly walk away.
- If you witness misconduct by ICE or other federal agents, you can report it to 911, your local District Attorney's Office or the Attorney General's Office.
  - District Attorney 303-441-3700
  - Colorado Attorney General's Office 720-508-6000 or online at www.coag.gov
- Colorado law prohibits civil immigration arrests at courthouses, probation offices, medical facilities or schools (C.R.S § 13-1-403 and 13-1-402)
- If you are engaging in a protest or encounter, please do so safely. Do not obstruct or put yourself and others at risk. You can, and should, document and report any misconduct.
- If there is an incident in Boulder County involving ICE, there will be a full investigation and charges brought for any illegal activity. No one is above the law.
- The Boulder County District Attorney's Office offers Know Your Rights trainings on the role of ICE, legal protections for immigrants, how to protest safely, the authority of local law enforcement and prosecutors.
